1. ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As ever, I am indebted to a host of people both inside and outside Turkey. Some have been named in RRMAM Fasc. 1: to the many others, in villages and towns throughout the Ankara region, I here record my grateful thanks.

To my long-suffering temsilciler I owe a debt which can never be repaid in full:

1974 Ahmet Tırpan
1975 Orhan Gürman
1976 Mahmut Arslan
1977 Sedat Heper, İbrahim Atalay
1978 İbrahim Atalay
1981 Bayan Pınar Türkan
1982 İsmet Ediz
1983 İsmet Ediz
1984 İsmet Ediz
1993 Yaşar Yılmaz

A great deal of my work was carried out in the central provinces of Turkey. I therefore wish to thank the Directors and Staff of the following Museums:

Ankara
Çorum
Karaman
Konya
Yalvaç

To the Directorate-General of Antiquities and Museums in Ankara I would like to offer my gratitude for the granting, year-on-year, of the necessary permission and for their strong support for my researches.

To Professor Dr Semavi Eyice I am grateful for his drawing to my attention the milestones preserved at the Ala-ed-Din Cami in Konya, and for his gift of a photograph (here Pl. 7.1.13 [p. 308]).

Dr Douglas Baird generously allowed me to use the text of a milestone (here no. 81) discovered on the Konya Plain Survey directed by him.

I would here like to mention the sponsorship which the British Academy and the British Institute of Archaeology at Ankara gave to my researches in the early years of the work. The Faculty of Classics at the University of Cambridge made a handsome grant towards the expenses of re-formatting of the Catalogue of Milestones.

Dr Joyce Reynolds reviewed, with great thoroughness and diligence, a preliminary draft of this volume. Professor Dr Werner Eck and Professor Stephen Mitchell have on several occasions offered sound advice and criticism and have corrected numerous errors of fact. To them my grateful thanks. The late Dr Michael Ballance generously made available his notes on Calder's notebook for 1910. By kind permission of the librarian, Colin A. McLaren, University Archivist, University of Aberdeen, I was able to inspect the Calder notebooks now held in the Department of Special Collections and Archives.

To Mark Duncan, Christine Phillips, Benni Claasz Coochson and Brian Williams who drew the maps and the milestones, to Christal Türkmen and Figen Kirişcioğlu who prepared the first version in ChiWriter and to Christine Perrier who re-formatted the Catalogue of Milestones in Word I wish to offer my heartfelt thanks.

Finally, to all at the British Institute at Ankara who assisted in the preparation of this digital version – Abby Robinson, Research Scholar, Michele Massa, Research Scholar, and the Director, Lutgarde Vanderput – I am deeply indebted for their help and assistance.

- Part 5 (the inscriptions of Asia Minor) was printed, as were the other components of Le Bas' work, in instalments or fascicules (livraisons) but, at the time of his death, it was incomplete. Le Bas had published the whole of the first half (the inscriptions in majuscule) of part 5 (sections 1-12 and 13 Additions) and section 1 ("livraison 47" [printed in Paris in 1858] pages 1-26) of the second half (the texts in minuscule, and the explanatory notes). The first half of the Asia Minor inscriptions – the texts in majuscule – began with "livraison 41" (printed in Paris in 1853), and ended with "livraison 46" (printed in Paris in [?]1858). Waddington completed the second half from Le Bas' papers. Both halves were then printed in Paris in 1870 as a unified whole.

3. NOTES AND COMMENTS

3.1 Administrative Areas and Codes, and Map

3.1.1 Administrative Areas and Codes

The province (il or vilayet) and the sub-province or district (ilçe or kaza) are both named at the head of the rubric for each milestone. These names are followed by their official codes. The third digit (in the group) records the sub-district (bucak) – which is not named in the rubric – in which the milestone is now located or from which the stone has been removed (e.g. to a museum).

3.1.2 Map

A map reference follows below the administrative code. The reference is based on the 1:200,000 maps issued by the General Directorate of Mapping, Ankara; it indicates a named map/sheet in that series and the grid square on the sheet. These named sheets form a single set and are based on a series of Ottoman maps (now extremely rare) which were printed c. 1890 in Ottoman script. Under the Republic all names on the Ottoman maps were transliterated into a Latin font. The latest revision- and printing-date of the post-Ottoman maps seems to be c. 1941.

The grid squares are designated, in sequence, from N to S by a letter of the Turkish alphabet – a-z, Ia-z, then IIa-i – and from W to E by a number, 1 seqq. Occasionally, for the purpose of greater precision, an additional reference is used, as follows: 55.99 (for example), the first two digits represent millimetres along a W-E coordinate, the second pair indicates millimetres along a S-N coordinate.

The 1:200,000 maps have great value for the topographer. They show routes and tracks – surviving from earlier times – as they existed in the 19th century; they indicate, moreover, 19th century village-names and toponyms (reflected in the early travellers) and in some cases ancient sites. Frequently it is now difficult to trace old village-names without recourse to the (rare) volumes (offering old and modern concordances of place-names) issued by the relevant Turkish authorities, notably Köylerimiz (İstanbul 1933, issued by the Dahiliye Vekâleti), Türkiye’de Meskûn Yerleri Kılavuzu 2 vols (Ankara 1946, issued by the T. C. İçişleri Bakanlığı) and, inter alia, the Genel Nüfus Sayımı, İdarî Bölümü 26.10.1975 (Ankara 1977, issued by the Başbakanlık Devlet İstatistik Enstitüsü).

3.2 Dates

The dates, cited here, for the Imperial tribunician power, consulship and (if any) imperial acclamation, are taken from the tables published by Kienast (1996).

It has not always been possible, however, fully to correlate the figures for tribunician power and consulship, as, for instance, on Trajanic milestones where the inscribed text reads TR·POT·COS·II for, presumably, TR·POT·(II)·COS·II. In this instance the consulship figure is consistently inscribed COS·II; a lapicide’s error in the notation of the consulship may, therefore, be discounted. The text prepared for the lapicide to copy, nevertheless, may well have been in error and the figure II was given (wrongly) to COS instead of TR POT. This anomaly occurs consistently on the milestones attributed to the roads of northern Galatia..

On the other hand, a modern reading may be incorrect, as for, example, on the milestone at Yörelî

(no. 126[B]); see the comment on the text.

For those milestones on which the Emperor's tribunicia potestas is inscribed but without numeration, i.e. simply TR·P, the non-presence of a number is here taken to indicate the initial year of his tribunicia potestas, e.g. AD 222, 13.iii-09.xii Severus Alexander Augustus.

3.3 Caput Viae

A separate entry, indicating the starting-point both of the road and of the measurement given in the distance figure has been inserted, for each milestone, immediately below the given text and above the entry for the date. Because of inherent difficulties (such as loss of, or damage to, the text), the caput viae is listed in hierarchical sequence, according to the degree of probability or possibility, as follows:

- Ancyra – the caput viae is inscribed in the text, in the form A (or Ab) + city-name
- (Ancyra) – the distance-figure is inscribed but the caput viae omitted,
- [Ancyra] – neither caput viae nor the distance figure have survived, but the city-name is here restored on the basis of probability.

Perhaps the most contentious interpretation is to be found at İskilip (no. 34), where the distance figure has not been corroborated by the discovery of other milestones in this area. A comparable instance or parallel may be drawn from the text of Çağırkan 1 (no. 68[A]): a high distance figure without indication of the caput viae. In both cases the milestones were located (it is here assumed) at or near the territorial boundary of the city and or province.

3.4 Absence of Milestones

The roads on which a milestone is thought to have been located are listed in section 4.2 Synopsis of Designated Roads and Numbered Milestones. It is there immediately apparent when no milestone has survived on a given road.

A notable example of the absence (or near-absence) of milestones is the road from Ancyra to Flaviopolis and Claudiopolis in Pontus-Bithynia, although it is thought that the Emperor Caracalla travelled by this route to Ancyra in AD 215 (Halfmann 1986, 224, 244). On the other hand, four large and massive milestones dedicated to Caracalla survive on the Pilgrim's Road west of the city of Iuliopolis; they are dated to AD 215/216.

Of some historical significance, perhaps, is the date – Flavian – of the earliest milestones on the road from Ancyra (established as the provincial capital in 25 BC under Augustus) to the Augustan colony of Germa and thence to the sanctuary at Pessinus. The Flavian date for the paving of the road – viam stravit – is some one hundred years later than the creation of the province itself. There is, in this example, a clear contrast with the action of Augustus in S Galatia: the construction – viam fecit – of the Via Sebaste, in 6 BC, between Perge and the Augustan colonies at Antiochia, Iconium and Lystra.

3.5 Provincial Boundary (Maps 5.1.1-2)

The boundary of the province Galatia, at the beginning of Septimius Severus' rule, is illustrated here on Maps 4.2.1-2 Synopsis of Designated Roads; a description of the relevant terrain and physical features is given in the parallel volume, RRMAM 4. Fasc. 2 The Roman Roads of Galatia.

The drawing in a letter (dated 7 January 1894) sent to the Königlische Akademie, Berlin, by von Flottwell (information from Stephen Mitchell) indicates that the stone takes the form of a square altar with mouldings above and below the shaft – hence, a dedication (to an unknown 3rd century Emperor by a provincial governor), not a milestone as hitherto (RRMAM 2, 1. 318) claimed.]

Commentary It is perhaps legitimate to ask whether or not these two milestones (nos 36 and 37) of Severus Alexander may be one and the same. Possibly, in error, the “cemetery” at Kayaş has been confused with the “cemetery” at Ortaköy. The two villages, Kayaş and Ortaköy, are only 6.5 km apart.

Commentary For the text of Sterrett, see the facsimile (Fig. 6.1.13 [p. 265]). Sterrett's text passed into CIL and thence to Ramsay (1941). The text given by Strobel follows the text of CIL; Strobel reads:

Commentary	For the text and date of this milestone, cp. above, 58(A). Eskiypar 1 and the comments of Christol and Lorient (1993, 214) on the date of the Eskiypar milestone and on the beginning of Asinnius Lepidus' governorship ("from 10/12/222 AD").

F.6 TAVIUM (- Melitene per Basilika Therma)or F.7 TAVIUM (- Caesaria per Therma)

Two milestones have been assigned to the shared portion of the above-named routes. Both texts, 45(C) Büyük Nefes 3 and 64. Musabeyli, date to the same year (AD 118/119) of Traianus; they record consecutive distance-figures from Tavium, namely, I and II. Both inscriptions were cut with identical line-arrangement, letter-formation, spelling (e.g. Adriano for Hadriano), misspelling (e.g. the praenomen and nomen of the legate) and phrase (curo . . .).

These idiosyncracies suggest the possibility that the two milestones are part of the same series along the same road. Tentatively it is proposed here to separate both road and milestones from the Ancyra - Tavium - Zela route (3.F.3) to which an earlier milestone (45[A]. Büyük Nefes 1; Nerva, AD 97; numbered MP I) has been assigned. It cannot be excluded, however, that milestones 45(C) and 64 replaced or augmented the record of Nervan activity (repair to road or milestone?) on the Ancyra - Tavium road.

lines 10-11: et L Septimius | Geta Caesar was once inscribed

“Lines 10, 11 and part of 12, are written in different style over an erasure. Originally these lines contained the name of P. Septimius Geta Caesar; but, after Geta had been murdered in AD 212 by his brother Caracalla, his name was erased on all monuments throughout the Empire. Erasures are very common in Imperial inscriptions of Emperors or Caesars whose memory had been condemned. Usually, the erasure is left as a blank space; but sometimes it is filled up: here and in this whole series of milestones titles of Caracalla are added. It is not quite certain whether the title Aug(ustus) is original or in the erasure, but probably it belongs to the later addition, as do Co(n)s(ul), and Parthicus Maximus” (Ramsay [A.M.] 1909, 26)

Date	AD 198/199, 10.xii-09.xii L. Septimius Severus and M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) Augusti with L. Septimius Geta (names erased) Caesar
Commentary	Almost universally on milestones in Asia Minor the name of Geta was erased;

for an exception, at Uluköy near Amasya (in Cappadocia) (see RRMAM 2, 1. 072 = French 1986b, 77 no. 3 = AE 1986. 664 = RRMAM 3.3 (Cappadocia). 149[A]. Uluköy 1). The erased lines were then inscribed with the titles of Caracalla, viz. consul and Parthicus maximus [16(A), 50(B), 74(A) & (C), 77, 72(A), 79(E) and 89(B)] or with other Imperial titles: Invict Aug [no. 86].

Description	“ . . . , on a small round cippus. The inscription is in a bad condition and much worn; but also it was scratched rather than incised by an unskilled engraver in very coarse crowded, small letters, of extremely bad shape. The inscription is very long; but only a part of a word here and there could be read, sufficient to show to one who was familiar with the epigraphy of the Province, Sub-Province and its milestones that it was one of the series (discovered during the last five years) raised in honour of Septimius Severus and Caracalla (with Geta erased) by Gaius Atticius Strabo, governor of Galatia in AD 198. The number was unfortunately illegible; the milestones of Atticius were generally measured from Ancyra. ... At a later time an inscription of [Valens, Gratian] and Valentinian was inscribed higher upon the cippus, identical with that which appears in no. 5” [= here, 72(C)] “.... The arrangement of the letters inside and outside of a rectangle, which was marked out for a much shorter inscription, shows that the masons used an older milestone, of which they must have obliterated the inscription. This stone, therefore, had as complicated a history as the preceding. It bore first an inscription of some earlier Emperor in the rectangular space marked out by lines. This was erased, and a dedication to Severus, Caracalla and Geta was substituted. Then Geta's name was erased and anachronistic titles of Caracalla were inserted AD 212. Finally, in the blank space above this dedication, the inscription of the three Emperors was engraved between AD 375 and 378” (Ramsay [A.M.] 1909, 23 and 24).

Commentary Text (1) is clearly earlier than text (2). Even in its present state, however, text (1) does not resemble, in style and form, the known texts of Caesennius Gallus (whether under Titus or under Domitianus). It is difficult to restore the name of Pomponius Bassus in lines 11-12); the date of the milestone, therefore, falls in the middle years of Domitianus' rule, i.e. after the final year of Gallus (AD 82) and before the first year (AD 94) of Bassus. For the date of text (2), see the commentary above, no. 79(B)

Caput Viae	(?)
Date	[L. Septimius Severus and M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) Augusti with Geta Caesar], (?) year
Commentary	The text can be dated to the reign of Septimius Severus on the basis of the governor's name.

The distance figure, PE, i.e. 105 Roman miles (= c. 156 km), is curious. From what caput viae was the distance measured? If from Iconium, the "original site" of the milestone would be located c. 156 km N of Konya, at a point 85 km S of Ankara, i.e. c. 100 km N of Altnekin (c. 55 km N of Konya). Perhaps unlikely. If from Ancyra, the "original site" would be situated in the neighbourhood of Cihanbeyli, c. 156 km S of Ankara and c. 45 km N of Altnekin. This latter explanation could be a more reasonable solution. On the other hand, PE, a Greek number, is most probably a mis-reading of a Latin figure, (?) XL, i.e. 40 MP or c. 60 km; the "original site" of the milestone would then lie a mere 5 km N of Altnekin. It should be noted that the usual practice on Severan stones of Galatia is for the Latin to precede a Greek figure (if any), cp. 123(A). Karaali 1 and 126(B). Yörelı 2, and, on the Via Sebaste, 90(B) Gencalı 2.

Description	A simple cylinder and plinth. Complete. Hard, pale limestone. Plinth square. “As the shading shows, almost the whole inscription has been destroyed by the mutilation of the stone; but from the few letters that remain, the whole can be restored with absolute and perfect certainty (except that the numbers of the Tribunician Authority and the Consulship are doubtful). All that can be said is that the inscription, being in honour of Hadrian, probably belongs to the same year as No.1 on this road. The most important point of the whole is the measurement, which fortunately is legible” (Ramsay [A.M.] 1909, 26)

Comment Waldmann's copy is poor, as perhaps was his squeeze (examined by Drew Bear; see the commentary by Christol and Drew Bear [1986, 52]). The DHF squeeze (drawing, Fig. 6.2.61 [p. 297]) clearly shows letters which perhaps, on the Waldmann squeeze, either are obscure or were not impressed on the squeeze paper. Following the re-edition of Christol and Drew Bear, I have indicated the status of certain readings by the use of additional marks not employed for the text given in RRMAM 2, 1. 395.

Caput Viae [Colonia Lystra]

Date AD 81, “seit Mitte Marz”-30.vi Titus Augustus with Domitianus Caesar

Commentary (Line 6) Was the name of Domitianus only partly erased? Or not at all? The size of the damage (at the beginning of l. 7) to Vespasian’s name suggests that the loss at the beginning of l. 5 may have been the result of wear or accident, not of partial erasure.

(Line 12) The verb straverunt usually indicates the paving of a road (cp. above, the text of 008 Mülk) rather than the building of a bridge, but cf. Winter (1996, 83, 150 and 154 “Bau einer Brücke”) and Laminger-Pascher (1992, 188 no. 299 “Meilenstein ?”).

According to Kienast (1996, 112 and 116), Titus began his TR P XI on 01 July 81, his COS DES IX “seit Mitte Marz” 81; Domitianus became COS VII DES VIII also “seit Mitte Marz” 01.i.81

Commentary It is not known on which road – to Pessinus ? or to Iuliopolis ? – this milestone once stood but most probably it was erected on the road which ran westwards from Ancyra to Iuliopolis and thence to Nicaea, Nicomedia and Chalcedon. On the basis of comparison between the text and lettering of text (2) with the text and lettering of the Batikent milestone – (below, no. 115. text [2]) - it is possible that both may have belonged to the same series, that is to say, both were erected on the same road, the so-called Pilgrim's Road, if the provenance of the Batikent milestone is an indication of its original location.

Description	A column re-used as a milestone. Chipped at the top, otherwise complete. Hard, grey limestone. The mouldings at the base of the column were removed. The column was inverted before being inscribed as a milestone; consequently the shaft now tapers slightly towards the bottom. The top surface is flat. The surface of the shaft is finely smoothed. Surface: some wear. The letters of the first text were very well shaped, of even height, and carefully cut; they remain sharp and clear.

Commentary There are 4 overlapping texts on this milestone, the third text (text [3]) re-using and adapting the letters of the previous inscription (text [2]). This practice, when combined with natural weathering and other damage, can make the texts on milestones exceptionally difficult to read; it is by no means uncommon to find 6 or 7 separate texts on a single milestone.

On the basis of its provenance – on the W side of Ankara, as nos 116. Akköprü and 112.

Etimesgut, above – this milestone may once have stood on the so-called Pilgrim's Road, the major highway between Byzantium/Constantinopolis, Ancyra, Tarsus and Antiochia (modern Antakya). There is a replicate of text (1) on another Severan milestone, 117(M). Ankara 13. On this second stone the distance figure is MP VI; it is probable that both milestones were erected on the same road, i.e. on the Pilgrim's Road.

Commentary The provenance of this milestone on the W side of Ankara – at Akköprü, c. 2.5 km NW of Ulus at the centre of Ancyra – suggests that – as nos 112. Etimesgut and 115. Caput Viae (Ancyra)

Date AD 211/212, 10.xii-09.xii M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) Augustus

Commentary On the basis of its provenance – on the S side of Ankara – this milestone may once have stood on the so-called Pilgrim’s Road, the major highway between Chalcedon and Antiochia (modern Antakya).

If the suggested location is correct, this milestone is one of three known to have been erected by order of M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) on the same road, running S from Ancyra, in the direction of Tarsus (in Cilicia) and Antiochia (in Syria); all three record the same text (though in a different lay-out) and at least two (probably also the third) the same date.

Location	“Trouvée à Tchanli-kaia, auprès d’Ancyre, dans une vigne,” (Perrot 1872, 1, 228); “Nous traversâmes les vignes de Tchengi ou Tchanli-aia , où, peu de temps avant notre arrivée à Ancyra, on avait découvert les restes d’une ville romaine du seconde siècle de notre ère; nous avons donné (n°. 113) une inscription qui provient de ces fouilles” (Perrot 1872, 1, 284). Commentary “Calder’s note indicates that the stone was superscribed” (Macpherson). The text given above varies, in details but not in essentials, from Calder’s version (quoted by Macpherson). The omissions (lines 2 and 4) and the restorations (lines 9-11) of the text here are based on the complete example (118[A]. Çankaya 1), and the near-complete example (121[B]. Örencik 2), of Caracallan milestones in the year AD 211/212.

Caput Viae (Ancyra)
Date AD 207/208 [Severus TR·P·XVI] (Buckler et al.); AD 197/198, 10.xii-09.xii [Severus TR·P·VI] L. Septimius Severus and M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) Augusti with L. Septimius Geta (names erased) Caesar, as no. 124(A) (DHF)

Commentary There is some uncertainty over the date of this text. Buckler et al. (l. c.) comment: “The inscription as it stands (l. 5) dates the third consulships both of Septimius Severus and of M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) in the year of the former’s sixth tribunician power, i.e. in A.D. 198. Clearly the engraver had XVI in his copy, i.e. A.D. 208”. In that year (AD 208), Severus would have been IMP·XII (XIII, Kienast 1996, 157), not IMP·XI. In AD 208 the imperial titles of Severus were TR·P·XVI·IMP·XII·COS·III and of M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) TR·P·XI IMP·II·COS III, cp. above, 117(M). Ankara 13. The Yörelî milestone, on the other hand, is unlike the Ankara milestone in three aspects: (1) in the fullness and completeness (on the Ankara text) of the imperial titles for the year AD 207-208, (2) in the omission (on the Yörelı stone) of the governor's name – P. Caecilius Urbicus Aemelianus – and (3) in the omission (on the Yörelı stone) of the phrase viam stratam a novo fecerunt, for which there is certainly no room.

Nor, confusingly, do the imperial titles on the Yörelı milestone wholly conform to the standard Severan text for the year 197/198, namely, TR·P·VI·IMP·XI·COS·II (French 1986, 88). Severus did not become COS·III until AD 202 (Kienast 1996, 157), M. Aurelius Antoninus (Caracalla) not until AD 208 (Kienast 1996, 163).

In the text above Caracalla's COS·III has been bracketed on the supposition that the letters are the result of dittography.

For a fragmentary but similar text, see above, no. 126(A). Karaalı 1, probably of the year, AD 198 (Severus TR·P·VI) and in the same series of milestones erected on the Pilgrim's Road – note, in both texts, the spelling, Aure(lius) and the arrangement of the final lines; cp. no. 131(G). Afşar 7, perhaps also in the same series.
