Figure S22.2. The partially excavated southern wall F.3096 clearly sits within a shallow but wide foundation trench F.7591. The wall is north of B.132's still-standing partition wall. Facing southeast (photograph by Arek Klimowicz).

Figure S22.3. Detail of the southern edge of platform F.6051, facing north. The smooth mark of the plank is clearly visible, as is the abutting make-up of platform F.3671 to the west (photograph by Burcu Tung).

Figure S22.10. Oven F.7308, facing south. The oven was truncated by later activities, although its circular cut was preserved as can be seen in the image (photograph by Burcu Tung).

Figure S22.11. Hearth F.8132, set immediately in front of oven F.7583, to the northeast of oven F.7308, also in the image. The circular cut for F.7308 is clear, as are its remaining floors (photograph by Jason Quinlan).

Figure S22.24. Overview of the southwestern activity area including oven F.3616 at the eastern end, abutted by basin F.8136. To the west is basin F.3610. Quern stone (17547) is still in use (photograph by Daniel Eddisford).

Figure S22.28. The 'discovery' of oven F.7108 in 2011, before it was excavated in 2012 and 2013. The fill of the oven was partially excavated in 2011. The oven floor in front of the oven is that of oven F.3621 that F.7108 truncated (photograph by Jason Quinlan).
